

THE PLAYERS
SIXTIER GRAMERCY PARK

June 16, 1945

Dear Rita:

No, I can't do any work of the sort. In the first place, I am occupied in gainful occupation until the day we leave, which will be about June 29. In the second, writing a piece of verse like that would take me a long time, and it ain't in what is known as My Line.

It was no surprise to me that the Compulsory Military Service thing was quashed. But it was a surprise to know the rancorous, ill-mannered talk about Jane Grant. I said that it took a long time to find out that she was no good; also that the editor of the Authors' League Bulletin attends all meetings.

I was interrupted just now by Mrs. Brubaker, who wanted me to go on a committee. Said that Rex Stout and Alan Green were going to do a lot of work. Rex doesn't know that he doesn't do Connecticut any good. Well, the testimonial will be held when I am far away, and if not I'll be far away. None of the things I said about Jane Grant was even heard. And by they may, at the June meeting of the Authors' Guild, Rex tried to get Alan on the council. Unanimously voted down, on the ground that he is not a writer. Rex said that he was a tremendous worker. So is Owen Young, and so is Henry Kaiser, but they aren't writers.

Watch the publicity about the death of the WWB. Even money there will be a statement given out by our chairman. There should be none whatever.

I doubt that I will be in Wednesday. Pvt Adams is home for ten days and I begrudge any time away.

Frank
(Adams)
F.A.A.

June 18, 1945

Dear Miss:

No, I can't do any work of the sort. In the first place, I am occupied in gainful occupation until the day we leave, which will be about June 22. In the second, writing a piece of verse like that would take me a long time, and it isn't in what is known as my time.

It was no surprise to me that the Compulsory Military Service thing was quashed. But it was a surprise to know the anonymous, ill-mannered talk about Jane Grant. I said that it took a long time to find out that she was no good; also that she officer of the Authors' League Bulletin attends all meetings.

I was interrupted just now by Mrs. Brubaker, who wanted me to go on a committee. Said that Rex Stout and Alan Green were going to do a lot of work. Rex doesn't know that he doesn't do Connecticut any good. Well, the testimonial will be held when I am far away, and if not I'll be far away. None of the things I said about Jane Grant was ever heard. And by the

at the June meeting of the Authors' Guild, Rex tried to get Alan on the council. Unanimously voted down, on the ground that he is not a writer. Rex said that he was a tireless worker. So is Owen Young, and so is Henry Kaiser, but they aren't writers.

Watch the publicity about the death of the WWB. Even money there will be a statement given out by our chairman. There should be none whatever.

I doubt that I will be in Wednesday. Pvt Adams is home for ten days and I begrudge any time away.